Directory of Non-Governmental Organizations Involved in Haiti's Post-Disaster Recovery

Compiled By:

- Dr. Alka Sapat, School of Public Administration, Florida Atlantic University
- Dr. Ann-Margaret Esnard, Department of Public Management and Policy, Georgia State University

Compiled: August 4, 2015

DISCLAIMER:
This is not the universe of coalitions, organizations, or networks involved with Haitian disaster recovery efforts. It is a partial list of the organizations that we identified in conducting research on non-governmental organizations, primarily based in the United States, involved in post-disaster recovery in Haiti.

The information presented on these organizations represents a snap-shot in time and as a result it may be incomplete or some information may no longer be valid. To minimize errors, only basic contact information is provided for each organization, which includes: name of organization, location of headquarters, and website.

It should be noted that there were many other NGOs established after the earthquake that do not appear in this directory because their status may have changed and/or current contact information could not be verified. The organizations are not responsible for any of the limitations or shortcomings of this directory.

Introduction

This directory was compiled as part of a larger research study on Haitian diaspora and non-governmental organization networks and their role in fostering disaster resilience and recovery in Haiti. The study focused on areas with large concentrations of Haitian-American populations and diaspora groups: South Florida, New York, Boston, and the Atlanta metropolitan area. These areas are where approximately 80% of the Haitian-American diaspora reside and are also where most Haitian-American diaspora coalitions and groups are based. The study included the work of those international NGOs from Washington D.C. and other parts of the U.S. whose work we were aware of and that have worked in Haiti. However, this is by no means the universe of NGOs, coalitions, or networks involved with Haitian disaster recovery efforts.

The main purpose of this directory is to make international aid groups and government agencies aware of some of the NGOs, including Haitian diaspora organizations that have worked and continue to work on disaster recovery and rebuilding efforts in Haiti. Our hope is that the directory and our research will ultimately help governmental and non-governmental organizations, communities, and international aid agencies in developing mechanisms to: foster collaboration and coordination during pre-disaster preparedness and mitigation and post-disaster recovery and reconstruction; to facilitate resource allocation; and, to inform appropriate responses to future disasters.

More information about the research project that led to the development of this directory is available at: http://www.fau.edu/spa/research/diaspora/summary.php. This directory can also be downloaded from this site.
